

Message from the President

Our company policy is to be a company that is in the business of impressing people, and to be a company that excites all employees. Each and every one of our employees acts in accordance with this policy, and we are working to become a bright and original company.

I believe that originality must be a new idea that has never been seen before, but it must also create value in social life. It should not be a complacent attitude preceded only by the pride of engineers. Creators must always envision what will impress customers with any product, and must engage themselves and those around them to enjoy themselves and those around them with a sense of excitement.

When people are impressed by the results of the work that our employees have done, they forget the hardships of their work and are happy and excited for some reason. It can be said that these two words "emotion" and "excitement" are the basic spirit of the work that we at DENSEI COMMUNICATION Inc. are aiming for.

President & CEO

Hiroshi Tagami

DENCOM